APPENDIX "D" STATEMENT OF WORK

SW1 BACKGROUND

Indian and Northern Affairs Canada (INAC) is responsible for providing assistance to the Department of Justice (DOJ) in defending court actions where INAC is the lead department and possesses information necessary for the conduct of the litigation. The Litigation Management and Resolution Branch is responsible for conducting the research and preparing the analysis of court actions by or against the federal Crown.

In February 2007, the Assembly of First Nations (AFN) and the First Nations Child and Family Caring Society of Canada (FNCFCS) (hereafter jointly referred to as the Complainants) filed a complaint with the Canadian Human Rights Commission alleging that under-funding of on-reserve child and family services constitutes systemic and ongoing discrimination on the basis of race, national or ethnic origin under the Canadian Human Rights Act.

On October 14, 2008, the Commission gave notice that it had referred the Complaint to the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal for a hearing. The hearing commenced on September 14, 2009 to address outstanding motions before the Tribunal, including motions for adjournment and additions of new parties. The hearing has been adjourned until January 19, 2010.

If the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal were to rule that Canada has discriminated in the way it funds child and family services on-reserve, Canada would be increasingly pressured to change its funding mechanism in this area. In addition, this could create a precedent for First Nations groups to pursue human rights complaints in order to drive federal funding policy.

Expert services in forensic accounting are essential to the Crown's defence of the Complaint in order to address the technical aspects of the Complainants' claims regarding under-funding of on-reserve child and family services. In addition, these services will assist in the development of legal strategy between INAC and DOJ and allow INAC to more effectively provide advice to the Minister and instructions to DOJ.

SW2 OBJECTIVE(S)

The objective of this contract is for KPMG to provide an expert report and expert witness services for the Crown. KPMG will be required to produce an expert report regarding the comparability of provincial and federal funding for child and family services. More specifically, this expert report will address the Complainants' allegation that when compared to provincial standards, INAC under-funds child and family services on-reserve by a level of 22%. The comparability of funding is contested by the federal Crown.

In order to meet this objective, KPMG will assess the validity of the methodology and conclusions cited by the Complainants in the May 6, 2000 Blue Hills Management and Consulting report, the 2005 Wende, The Journey Continues and other relevant materials, review relevant reports produced by the Complainants' expert witnesses, and undertake an analysis of provincial and federal funding for child and family services.

SW3 SCOPE OF WORK

The Contractor shall perform the following to the satisfaction of the Departmental Representative:

Phase 1: Blue Hills Report

- a) Review and critique the chart contained in the Blue Hills report that alleges that when compared to provincial funding there is a 22% shortfall in the federal government's funding for the annual cost of child in care;

APPENDIX "D" STATEMENT OF WORK

- b) review the methodology used by Blue Hills to create the chart, evaluate the methodology used to arrive at the report's conclusions, document issues with the above noted methodology, and provide an analysis of validity, reliability and potential limitations of the original findings;
- c) document the resulting analysis in an expert report.

Phase 2: Wen'de Report

- d) Review and critique the economic analysis used to develop recommendations for a new funding formula, quantify the resulting cost implications and highlight comments made by the report's authors concerning the validity and reliability of the funding analysis and as set out in Wen'de, The Journey Continues;
- e) document findings in an expert report.

Phase 3

- f) after completing the Phase 1 review of the methodology used to create the "22% underfunding chart", and if concerns are raised with the methodology used, propose an alternative methodology/methodologies that could be employed to most effectively compare federal and provincial funding levels of child and family services broken down by province/territory;
- g) by using the most effective methodology to compare the funding, create a chart for 2005-2006 to compare the federal government funding, broken down by province/territory, with the provincial government and Yukon funding (based on available provincial/territorial funding data);
- h) draw conclusions, where possible, as to how the federal government funding, broken down by province/territory, compares to the provincial/territorial funding;
- i) further, compare the numbers from the original Blue Hills chart and the updated Blue Hills chart to that of the 2005-2006, and determine if funding has increased or decreased in comparison to provincial counterparts in that timeframe.

The Contractor shall carry out the following general services:

- a) acquire familiarity with background information and material through the process of reading, researching and attending meetings with departmental officials or others by establishing contacts with other informed sources;
- b) obtain relevant information from provincial and federal government departments;
- c) correspond with the departmental representative, Crown litigation counsel and other officials to assist in gathering necessary information;
- d) consult with, and provide advice to, Crown litigation counsel to address the needs of the litigation as required;
- e) provide progress reports, as described under output below;
- f) review the required Complaint documents;
- g) produce a draft and final written expert report detailing the work undertaken and conclusions, as well as a critique of the relevant reports produced by the Complainants' expert witnesses;
- h) attend and testify at the Tribunal proceedings as required; and
- i) provide work reports summarizing professional time expended with all invoices submitted to INAC.

SW4 OUTPUT/DELIVERABLES

The Contractor shall provide the following services and deliverables output:

- an expert report addressing the issues outlined in the Statement of Work and project proposal. KPMG will provide a draft of the report by February 1, 2010. The final expert report to be submitted on February 15, 2010;
